

LABOR LEADERS TELL WHERE LABOR STANDS IN POLITICS

Julius Rosenwald, famous Sears-Roebuck millionaire and backer of United Charities, last night ordered his chauffeur to drive him to the Lawson school, 1258 S. Homan av. There he took the platform and made a speech telling workingmen to vote for Hughes for president. He read from the Legislative News, which he described as "the recognized labor organ of New York," and wished workingmen to note well that Hughes was "the greatest friend of labor that ever occupied a governor's chair at Albany."

"You want to know where labor stands," said Ed Nockels, secretary Chicago Federation of Labor today. "Read this. It's the American Federation of Labor News-Letter for this week."

According to Pres. Sam Gompers, Vice Pres. Jim O'Connell and Sec'y Frank Morrison of the A. F. of L., there are only two issues in the campaign. One is Labor. The other is Wall Street. Speaking as the labor representation committee of the A. F. of L., it is stated Wilson refused to obey Wall street on war with Mexico and, besides keeping the U. S. out of European war, Wilson has supported "humanitarian protective legislation unprecedented in amount and scope."

"Due to the initiative of Pres. Wilson, congress extended the U. S. eight-hour law to include workmen engaged in the operation of the railroad train service of the country and a great national strike was averted."

"The Clayton law, child labor law, seamen's bill and other legislation is cited. Every union in the A. F. of L. is urged to hold one special meeting to discuss Wilson's record."

"In the Illinois Federation of Labor convention this week I did not see one Hughes button among delegates," said Agnes Nestor, president Woman's Trade Union league.

"There were many Wilson buttons. Labor in Illinois is for Wilson."

WE'LL PUT OURS ON, BUT NOT AS BERLIN DOES

Berlin, Oct. 21.—New system inaugurated in Berlin, whereby every one must buy underclothing, men's and women's suits and coats, through special magistrate's cards.

Piece goods, excepting silks, for some time have been purchased only by presenting cards. There were easily obtainable.
